

Si près du ciel, Le Tibet

Jacques Borgetto

Matthieu Ricard, Jean-Paul Ribes, Magali Jauffret

"I have traveled all over Tibet many times in all seasons since 2007 and have seen many changes in the territory: roads and motorways are increasingly fragmenting the landscapes of the great plateaus, I have often thought that these changes would serve the Tibetans.

This is not the case: no infrastructure is intended to serve small towns and settlements. Chinese colonization is becoming more and more evident in Lhasa, a holy city.

This policy was accompanied by the destruction of the Tibetan settlement, which was replaced by the construction of housing for the Chinese. This voluntarist policy also tends towards the sedentarisation of the nomads of the high plateaus with the corollary the construction of new towns.
