D'après photographies, directed by Guillaume Bonnel, is devoted to the photographic observatory of the landscapes of Ille-et-Vilaine. Rather than presenting linearly what is called a "photographic itinerary", a visual course which embodies a territory in images, it offers an experience which, taking these images for the starting point, allows them to be really careful. The images of the observatory, made by Guillaume Bonnel, were thus given to read to a large audience in the form of a photographic game. During this game the participants had to react to the images by very free creations, which are exhibited in this book.
